QVC Group (EEA and UK)

Whistleblowing Privacy Notice

June 2025

Background

At QVC Group, Inc. ("QVCG" or "we"), we are committed to protecting the privacy, confidentiality, and security of your ("You" or "Your") personal data. This Team Member Supplemental Privacy Notice (hereinafter "Privacy Notice") explains what personal data we will hold about you, how we collect, process, use it, and how we share information about you in the context of internal investigations conducted by the Ethics team and related to potential policies and applicable laws breaches communicated via channels made available by QVCG, including the whistleblowing hotline. We are required to notify you of this information, under EU/UK data protection legislation. Please ensure that you read this Privacy Notice and any other similar notice we provide to you from time to time when we collect or process personal data about you. When this Privacy Notice uses the term "Affiliates", that means the companies that directly or indirectly owned by QVCG, including QVC, Inc., HSN, Inc.

Please note that this Privacy Notice is in addition to the Team Member privacy notice provided to you before starting work at a QVCG Company, in particular with regard to processing of your personal data in the context of internal investigations.

Other Laws and Processes

Where QVCG's use of personal data is limited by local laws (including employment law) or where QVCG's use of personal data is subject to other mandatory processes (for example, works councils), then this Privacy Notice is subject to those other relevant laws and processes.

Controller and Data Protection Officer

QVCG and its Affiliates indicated in the table below are considered each, separately, "Data Controllers" and they may collect and use certain information about you in the context of internal investigations conducted by the Ethics team. When this Privacy Notice mention "QVC", this means QVC, Inc. and the respective affiliate operating in the market where you are currently working.

For more information on how QVC conducts internal investigations, please contact the People Team or Legal team in your local market. For questions regarding this Privacy Notice, please contact the DPO or the Legal team operating in your market.

You may contact the relevant Data Protection Officer if you have questions about QVC's use of your personal data. The collection and processing of personal data when you act as a QVC's customer is regulated by the Privacy Policy found on the relevant customer-facing website.

About the Information We Collect

As a part of the reports received as well as the internal investigation process, QVC may process the following types of personal data for its team members and reported subjects. Typically, categories of personal data in scope are:

- Contact information, such as first name, last name, business address, business telephone number, business email address, etc.
- Communications data, such as content data of emails, instant messages, etc.
- Location data such as place of work and where the reported subject is located.
- Financial data related to credit card work related expense report and receipts.
- Benefits and compensation related data, such as medical plans, pension plans, etc.
- QVCG work related data, such as employee personnel file and other QRG work data.

Please note that considering the nature of the process, it is also possible that QVC collects personal data related to the reported subject or other individuals (typically: contact data, role, opinions, etc.).

QVC does not collect special categories of personal data by default during its internal investigations. However, such special categories of personal data may be voluntarily disclosed to QVC's and its Affiliates' employees (and other data subjects) when reporting a potential violation, misconduct or may be disclosed during the investigation. There may be circumstances where the processing is necessary for reasons of substantial public interest, on the basis of United Kingdom or EU Member State law or when it is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims or whenever courts are acting in their judicial capacity. In all cases, special categories of personal data will only be collected, processed and transferred, including outside the European Economic Area ("EEA") and the United Kingdom, in accordance with the applicable laws.

Data on prospective litigation and alternative dispute resolution, including reports of illicit activities processed in case of misconduct reports may be collected by QVC if connected to the report. As a result, please note that criminal offence data may be collected and processed in case of reported misconducts regarding violation of the law (e.g., fraud). Your personal data may be provided by you directly or by other individuals (including Team Members, candidates, suppliers, consultants, and other individuals submitting a report).

How We Collect and Use the Information

QVC collects information from its IT systems and directly from individuals (in case of interviews and/or information received via the compliance line and whistle-blower hotline) including Team Members. We limit the personal data we process to what is relevant for the purposes of a particular project and do not use it for purposes that conflict with how it was collected or authorised to be used.

Legal basis

QVC and its Affiliates operating in the EU / UK markets have identified the compliance with a legal obligation as well as the legitimate interest (where applicable in absence of a specific law provisions regulating the processing activity) as the legal basis for the processing of personal data during investigations on reported concerns. The legitimate interest is to ensure compliance in line with principles and guidance from applicable laws and internal policies.

In certain circumstances and only if strictly necessary in connection with the report, we may process personal data revealing racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, or trade union membership, and the processing of genetic data, biometric data for the purpose of uniquely identifying a natural person, data concerning health or data concerning a natural person's sex life or sexual orientation. QVC and its Affiliates will process such data, only when allowed under applicable laws, in order to: (i) carrying out the obligations and exercising specific rights of QVC or of the data subject in the field of employment and social security and social protection law in so far as it is authorised by Union or Member State law or a collective agreement pursuant to Member State law (or United Kingdom law) providing for appropriate safeguards for the fundamental rights and the interests of the data subject; (ii) comply with a legal obligation or (iii) when it is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims or whenever courts are acting in their judicial capacity.

We seek to ensure that our information collection and processing is always proportionate. The provision of personal data is voluntary, however, all team members who are in any way involved in an investigation must cooperate during the course of the investigation and provide information where required. This duty of cooperation does not restrict any rights that exist under national or local regulations, or other applicable legal provisions.

How We May Share the Information

QVC may share personal data with service providers and Affiliates during internal investigations, as described above. Your personal data may be disclosed to third party service providers or Affiliates only to start, conduct and complete the internal investigation. In particular, we use a service provider for the platform called "Navex" which is used for managing reports regarding potential breaches of applicable laws and internal policies. This service provider has been appointed as Data Processor and may use other service providers for the provision of the services.

Depending on the reported concern, this may be shared also with law firms, external consultant and competent authorities.

If you have questions on how QVC shares your personal data with service providers and its Affiliates, as well as their privacy role, you may contact your local EU / UK Legal team or the DPO. Team Members working in the internal investigation process have received dedicated instructions from QVC.

Trans-Border Data Transfers

In the context of internal investigations, personal Data are processed outside the EEA and the United Kingdom. In particular, personal data collected during internal investigations are subject to internal transfers between QVC and Affiliates (please note that the Ethics Team operates globally). The transfer will happen using electronic instruments and via phone, when you decide to use such mean.

QVC and Affiliates operate in many countries around the world, including the United States (where there are certain centralized functions), European Economic Area (EEA), the United Kingdom, and Japan. In addition, service providers of QVC and Affiliates may also be located in countries outside the EEA and the United Kingdom. These transfers are necessary for ensuring support, maintenance, administration, oversight, or hosting services related to the internal investigation(s). These countries may include countries that have not received an adequacy decision by the European Commission and/or the competent UK Government Authority. Any transfer of personal data to QVC, Affiliates or service providers is covered by EU Standard Contractual Clauses (including UK additional provisions where applicable) or another appropriate transfer mechanism to ensure that Team Member personal data (as well as personal data pertain to other individuals) are processed in compliance with applicable data protection laws. You may contact your local EU / UK legal department or the DPO if you have questions about transfer mechanisms.

Where restricted, sensitive personal data types will not be transferred outside of your country. Personal data revealing racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, health, sexual orientation, sex life, trade union membership and genetic and biometric data are subject to special protection and considered by EU / UK privacy law to be "sensitive personal data".

How Long We Keep Your Information

As a general rule, personal Data will be kept no longer than required by QRG Data Retention Policy (QVC US HSN & QI Retention Schedule), unless required by law, and personal data will be deleted or anonymized as required by applicable law. In addition, data may be deleted earlier in accordance with specific software policies, Employee Representation bodies, or service providers agreements. If destroying or erasing your personal data is not mandatory by law, we may make it anonymous such that it cannot be associated with or tracked back to you.

Please note that your personal data is deleted promptly if a reported concern is considered groundless or when these are not deemed to be useful for managing the specific report received (usually these data are deleted at the maximum within two (2) months of completion of the investigation of the facts alleged in the report). Such periods may be different when legal proceedings or disciplinary measures are initiated against the incriminated person or the whistleblower in cases of false or slanderous declaration. In such cases, personal data are kept until the conclusion of these proceedings and the period allowed for any appeal. Finally, any national rules relating to archiving of data in QVC remain applicable.

How We Protect Your Personal Data

QVC and its Affiliates maintains security measures to protect personal data from loss, misuse, unauthorised access, disclosure, alteration, or destruction taking due account of the nature of the data and the risks involved in the processing.

Your Rights

You have a number of rights in relation to our handling of your data. These include the following:

- Access: you are entitled to ask us if we are processing your information and, if we are, you can request access to your personal data (commonly known as a "data subject access request" or DSAR in short). This enables you to receive information regarding the personal data we hold about you and to check that we are lawfully processing it.
- Correction: you are entitled to request that any incomplete or inaccurate personal data we hold about you is corrected.
- Erasure: you are entitled to ask us to delete or remove personal data in certain circumstances (e.g., if you withdrew your consent to process your personal data for specified therein purposes). There are also certain occasions where we may refuse a request for erasure, for example, where the personal data is required for compliance with laws and regulations, with our obligations under our contract and for other legal reasons such as in connection with claims.
- Restriction: you are entitled to ask us to suspend the processing of certain of your personal data about you, for example if you want us to establish its accuracy or the reason for processing it.

- Transfer: you may request the transfer of certain of your personal data to another party.
- Objection: where we are processing your personal data based on a legitimate interest (or those of a third party) you may object to processing on this ground. However, we may be entitled to continue processing your information based on our legitimate interests.
- Automated decisions: you may object to any automated decision made about you where this has a legal or similar significant effect and ask for it to be reconsidered.
- Right to withdraw consent: in the limited circumstances where you may have provided your consent to the collection and processing of your personal data for a specific purpose, you have the right to withdraw your consent for that specific processing at any time. The withdrawal only applies to any future processing not what we have done in the past. To withdraw your consent, please contact the appropriate DPOs at the contact details specified above.

With regard to the processing referred in this Privacy Notice, please note that the exercise of your rights might be subject to limitations, if necessary, in order to protect the confidentiality of the report as well as the identity of the reporting individual.

We hope that the local legal department or the DPO can resolve any query or concern you raise about our use of your personal data. In the event you have a complaint about violations of your data protection rights, or if you are not satisfied with the results of review, complaint and appeal procedures within QVC, you can also lodge a complaint with the competent supervisory authority. QVC has committed to cooperate in investigations by and to comply with the advice of competent EU/UK authorities in such case.

How to Contact Us

If you have questions about the Privacy Notice or the use of data that has not received adequate explanations, you can contact your market's Data Protection Officer or contact at the contact details specified above.

Changes to the Privacy Notice

We seek to ensure that our personal data collection and processing is always proportionate. We will notify you of any changes to this Privacy Notice or to the purposes for which we collect and process personal data.
